WORKING IN HANOVER

Studying for your degree or doctorate today – working in the Hanover Region tomorrow

Are you from a non-EU country and studying for a degree or doctorate in Hanover? Are you considering working in the region once you graduate? Our advice is to look into this early on – you can start job hunting while you are still completing your degree or doctorate.

We have put together all the details you need to know about in this leaflet.

It is aimed at

- Students from non-EU states (Section 16 of the German Residence Act – AufenthG)
- Doctoral students from non-EU states (Sections 16, 18, 19 a, 20 of the German Residence Act – AufenthG)

Why work in the Hanover Region?

The Hanover Region with its state capital is a powerful economic hub at the heart of Europe. Its excellent transport links, diverse range of leisure options, culture and employment opportunities make it an outstanding location. The region also benefits from affordable housing and being close to nature.

There are many interesting employers – consider small businesses too

Our region is home to famous corporations and global brands that you will already know. But what about the small and medium-sized businesses that are also here? In total, there are around 50,000 companies in the Hanover Region and of these, approximately 44,000 (88 %) are micro-businesses with less than ten employees. The 200 large-scale enterprises account for less than 1% of the companies in the region in terms of numbers, even if they do employ more than a third of all workers.

DURING YOUR DEGREE, YOU CAN WORK 120 FULL DAYS OR 240 HALF DAYS IN A CALENDAR YEAR.

What opportunities are available while you are still studying for your degree or doctorate?

Try to establish contact with companies early on and gain practical experience. Get active at an early stage and build your own network.

You can also write your thesis at a company. Ask your lecturer about this. A work placement at a company can be a point of entry into the world of work. For a company, a work placement is like an application before the actual application!

You should adhere to the following rules:

During your degree you can work 120 full days or 240 half days (up to 4 h per day = half a day) in a calendar year and complete a voluntary work placement.

- Important: These rules do not apply for university applicants or for the first year of preparation for a degree (e.g. language course). This restriction does not apply to compulsory work placements or work shadowing as part of your degree. However, you should still request permission from the immigration office.

In addition to the 120-day or 240-half-day rule, you can take on a student job at the university or an academic institution without any time restriction, e.g. as a tutor, advisor or in student organisations, for example with the AStA student representation body.

Doctoral students who are employed as academic staff may also hold an additional role.

- Important: This is at the discretion of the immigration office. The main purpose of your stay is to complete your doctorate and not to have a full-time job that is unrelated to your doctorate.

What about the time after the degree or doctorate?

From the day on which you receive your completion certificate, you have 18 months to find employment. In this period, all employment is allowed (see tip below). The 18-month rule also applies to successfully completed postgraduate courses and conferral of a doctorate.

- Important: The position that you hold after these 18 months must correspond to your qualifications. For example, if you are a qualified engineer, you are not permitted to work as a baker.

Doctoral students are permitted to take up employment at the institute during their doctorate, if they have a corresponding contract of employment. You will be granted a residence permit for the purposes of the employment.

Once you complete your doctorate and the employment contract expires, your existing residence permit can be extended for half a year. During this time, you can seek employment. Please note that a change to this rule is planned from 2018. Please ask your immigration office.

- Important: Section 18 c of the German Residence Act (AufenthG) permits a six-month period of job seeking, but economic activity is not permitted. Section 18 c of the German Residence Act applies, for example, if a foreign national with a higher education qualification is employed in a post relevant to this qualification in accordance with Section 18 (4) of the German Residence Act, becomes unemployed and then switches to Section 18 c of the German Residence Act in order to seek employment for a maximum of six months.

ONCE YOU RECEIVE YOUR COMPLETION CERTIFICATE, YOU HAVE 18 MONTHS TO FIND A JOB.

Is working for yourself an alternative?

Do you wish to become self-employed during or on completion of your degree or doctorate, for example as a freelance interpreter, or set up your own business, such as an engineering or law firm? This is possible, but requires the permission of the immigration office.

Would you rather start vocational training instead of continuing your studies?

As of 01/08/2017, students are able to switch to vocational training if certain requirements are met. Ask the immigration office for more information.

Special case

Academics (Section 18 c (1) of the German Residence Act) who come to Germany for the sole purpose of seeking employment have six months to do so. Ask the immigration office about this in good time.

Tip: Two years after completing your studies, you can check whether you are eligible for a permanent settlement permit in accordance with Section 18 b of the German Residence Act. Holders of an EU Blue Card can check if they are eligible for a permanent settlement permit after 33 months of employment (or 21 months if they have sufficient German language skills – language level B1).

ⓘ Note: If you discontinue your doctorate, please contact the immigration office immediately as this changes your residence status.
